

1864
WARREN

I'd give the world to see her
Who cared for me when young

Words and Music by

CHARLES W. WARREN.

Author of "Bird of beauty why tarry ye here;" "Strike, ye sons of liberty."
"The Angels message of love." "Sweet hope in life." &c.

NEW YORK:

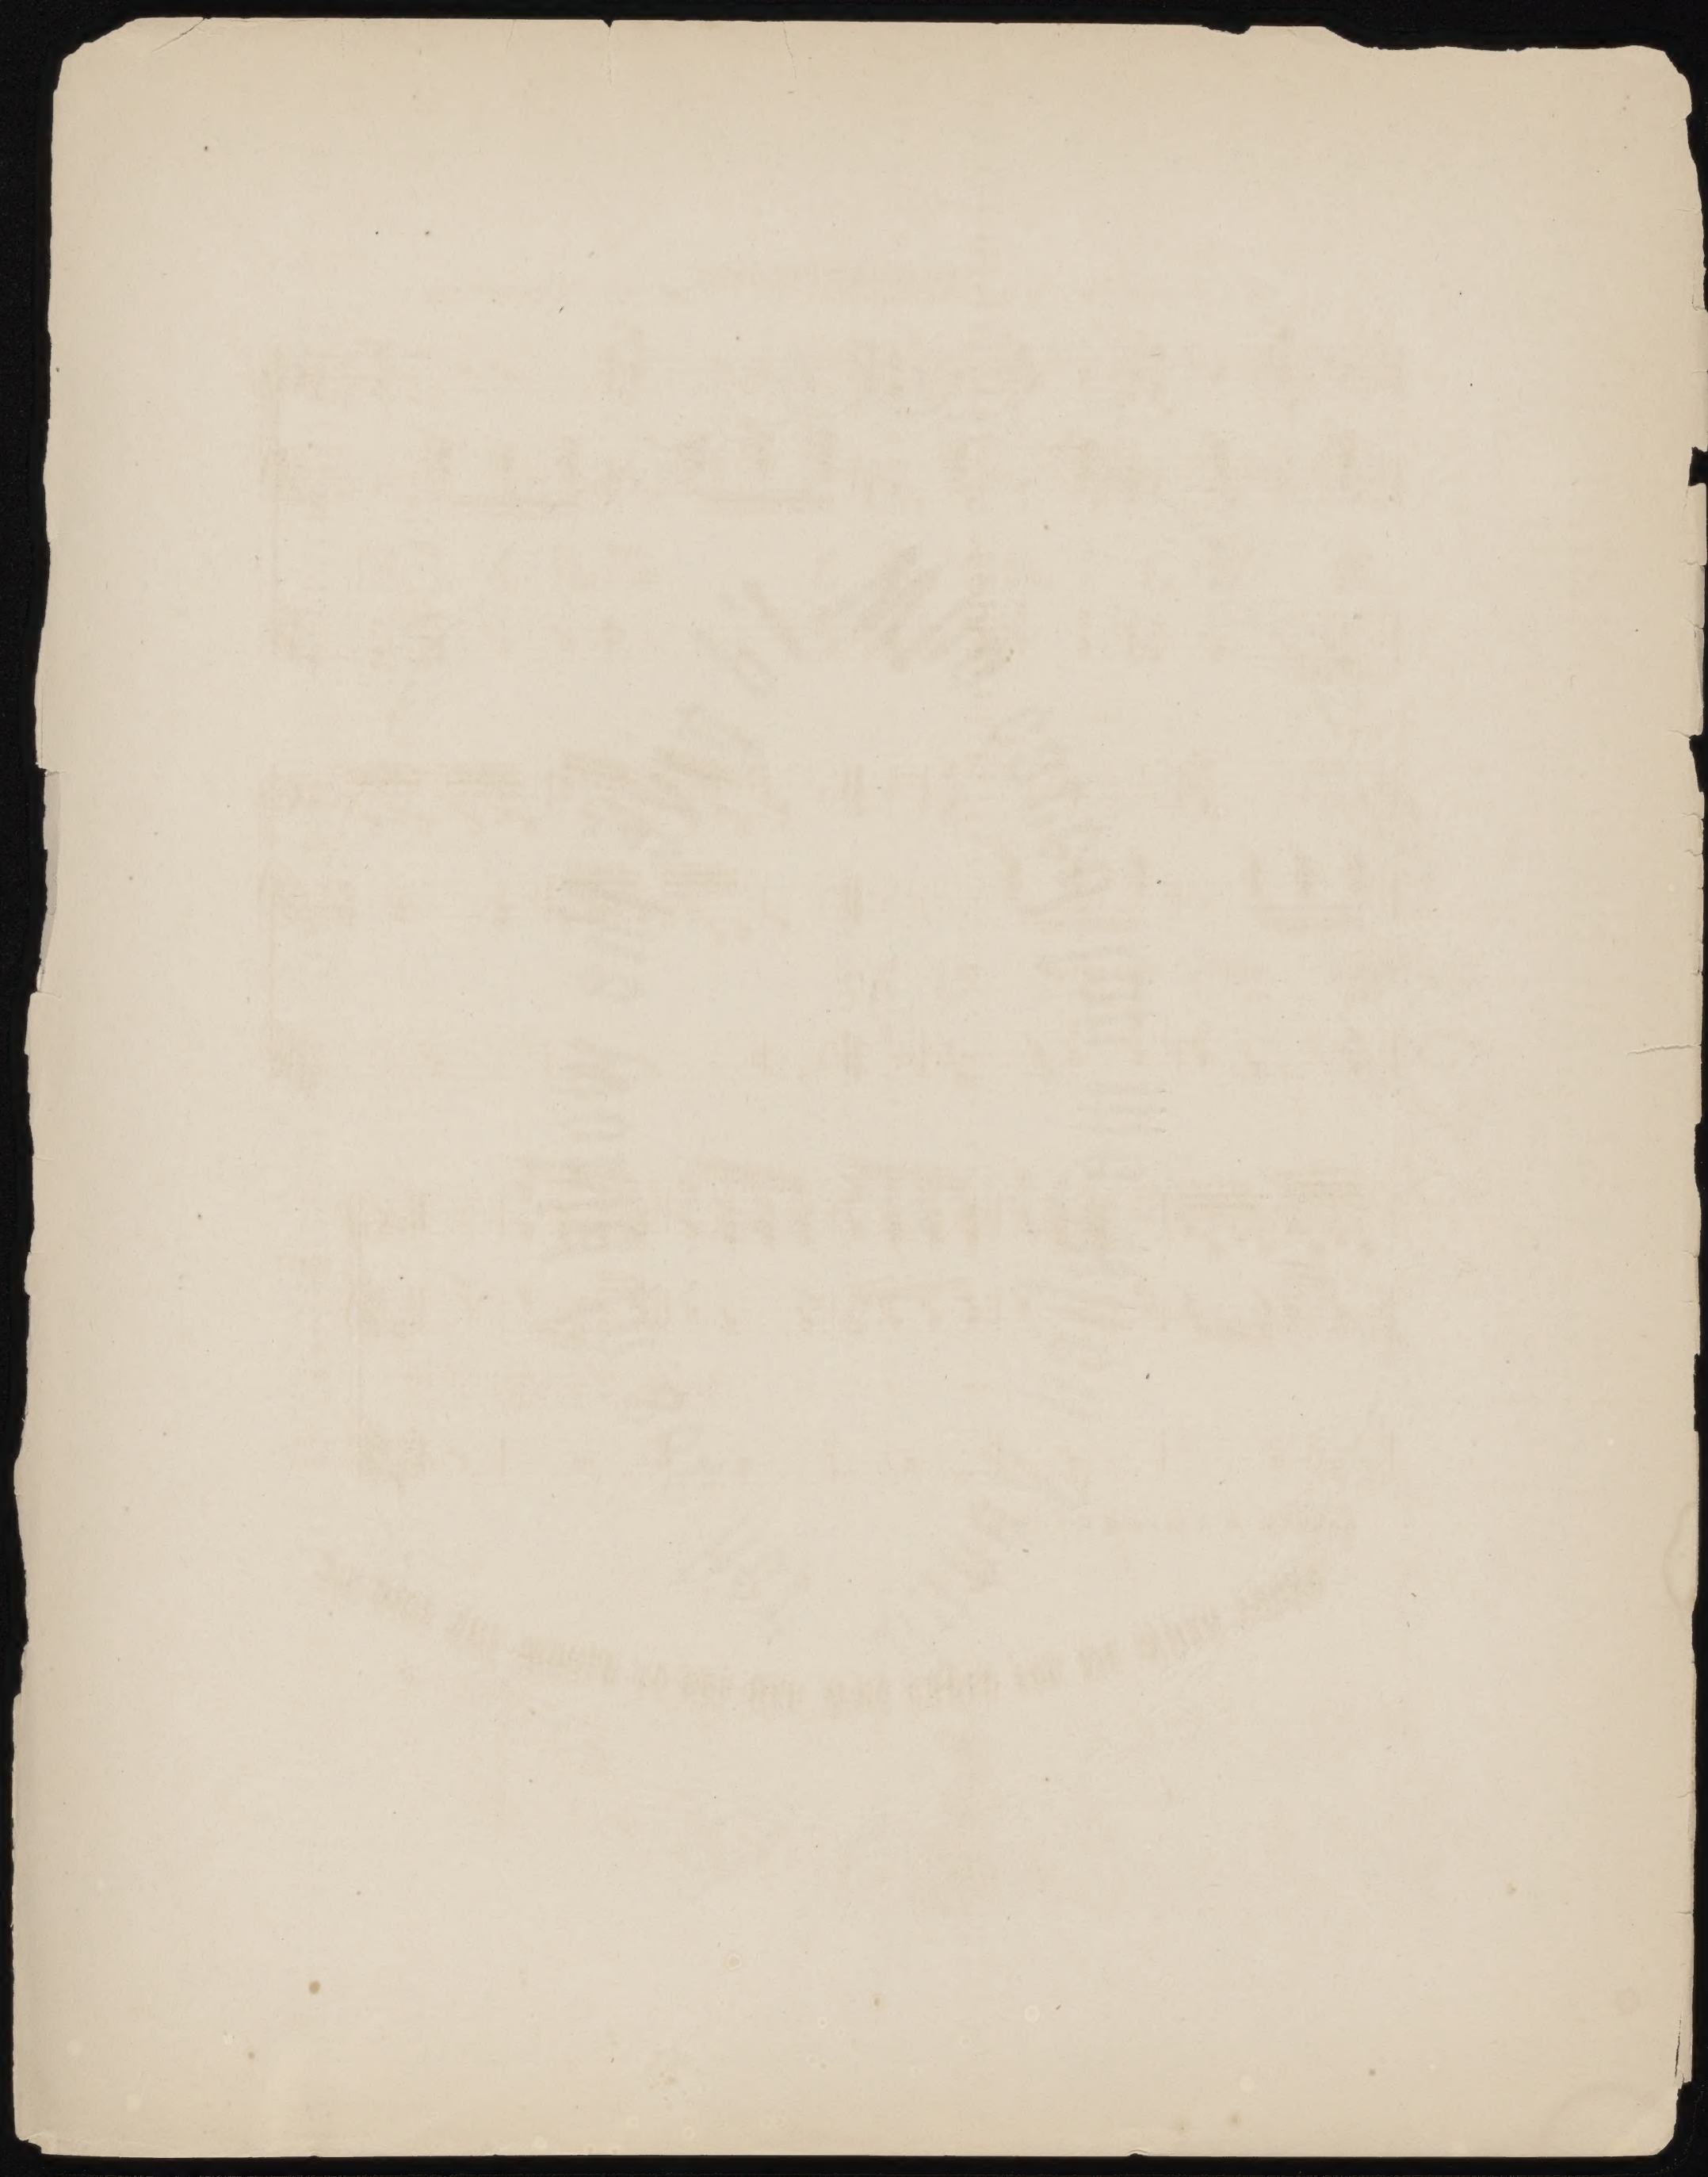

Published by WM. A. POND & Co., 547 Broadway.

WARREN, Music Stereotyper.

Entered according to act of Congress in A. D. 1864, by C. W. WARREN, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court for the Southern District of New York.

17438

*
I'D GIVE THE WORLD TO SEE HER WHO CARED FOR ME WHEN YOUNG.

Words and Music by C. W. WARREN.

VOICE.

To ascertain the Time, tie a string to a spool of thread—let the string be nine & a half inches long from the spool to the thumb and finger holding it—let it swing forwards and backwards, counting 1, 2, 3, 4, to the measure, and you will have the correct time.

PIANO.

1. I'd give the world to see her Who
2. My heart with sad - ness break-ing, Breathes cared for me when young, I'd give the world to tell her How forth a si - lent prayer To one whose love par - ta - king, Still

ten. a piacere

oft her praise I've sung; Her gen - tle chi - ding whis - per. Just holds its im - age there. Sleep on!— I soon shall meet thee! Sleep like a sil - v'ry stream, So ..... soft, oh! so soft and on!— 'tis not a dream! Sleep..... on!— Sweet, oh, sweet the

pp COLLA VOCE.

sweet, so soft and sweet, Comes o'er..... me, comes sleep, oh, sweet the sleep That chains..... me, that o'er..... me like a dream..... I'd chains..... me to my theme..... I'd give the world, I'd give the world..... To see.....

give the world, &c.

her, to see..... her Who cared for me when young.

Sva.

2.

My heart with sadness breaking,
 Breathes forth a silent prayer
 To one whose love partaking,
 Still holds its image there.
 Sleep on! I soon shall meet thee!
 Sleep on!—'tis not a dream!
 Sleep on!—sweet, oh, sweet the sleep
 That chains me to my theme.
 I'd give the world, &c.

It is the heart of the matter
that we have to consider the whole of the system
and not only the parts
but the whole of the system
and not only the parts
but the whole of the system
and not only the parts
but the whole of the system